

THE LEGEND

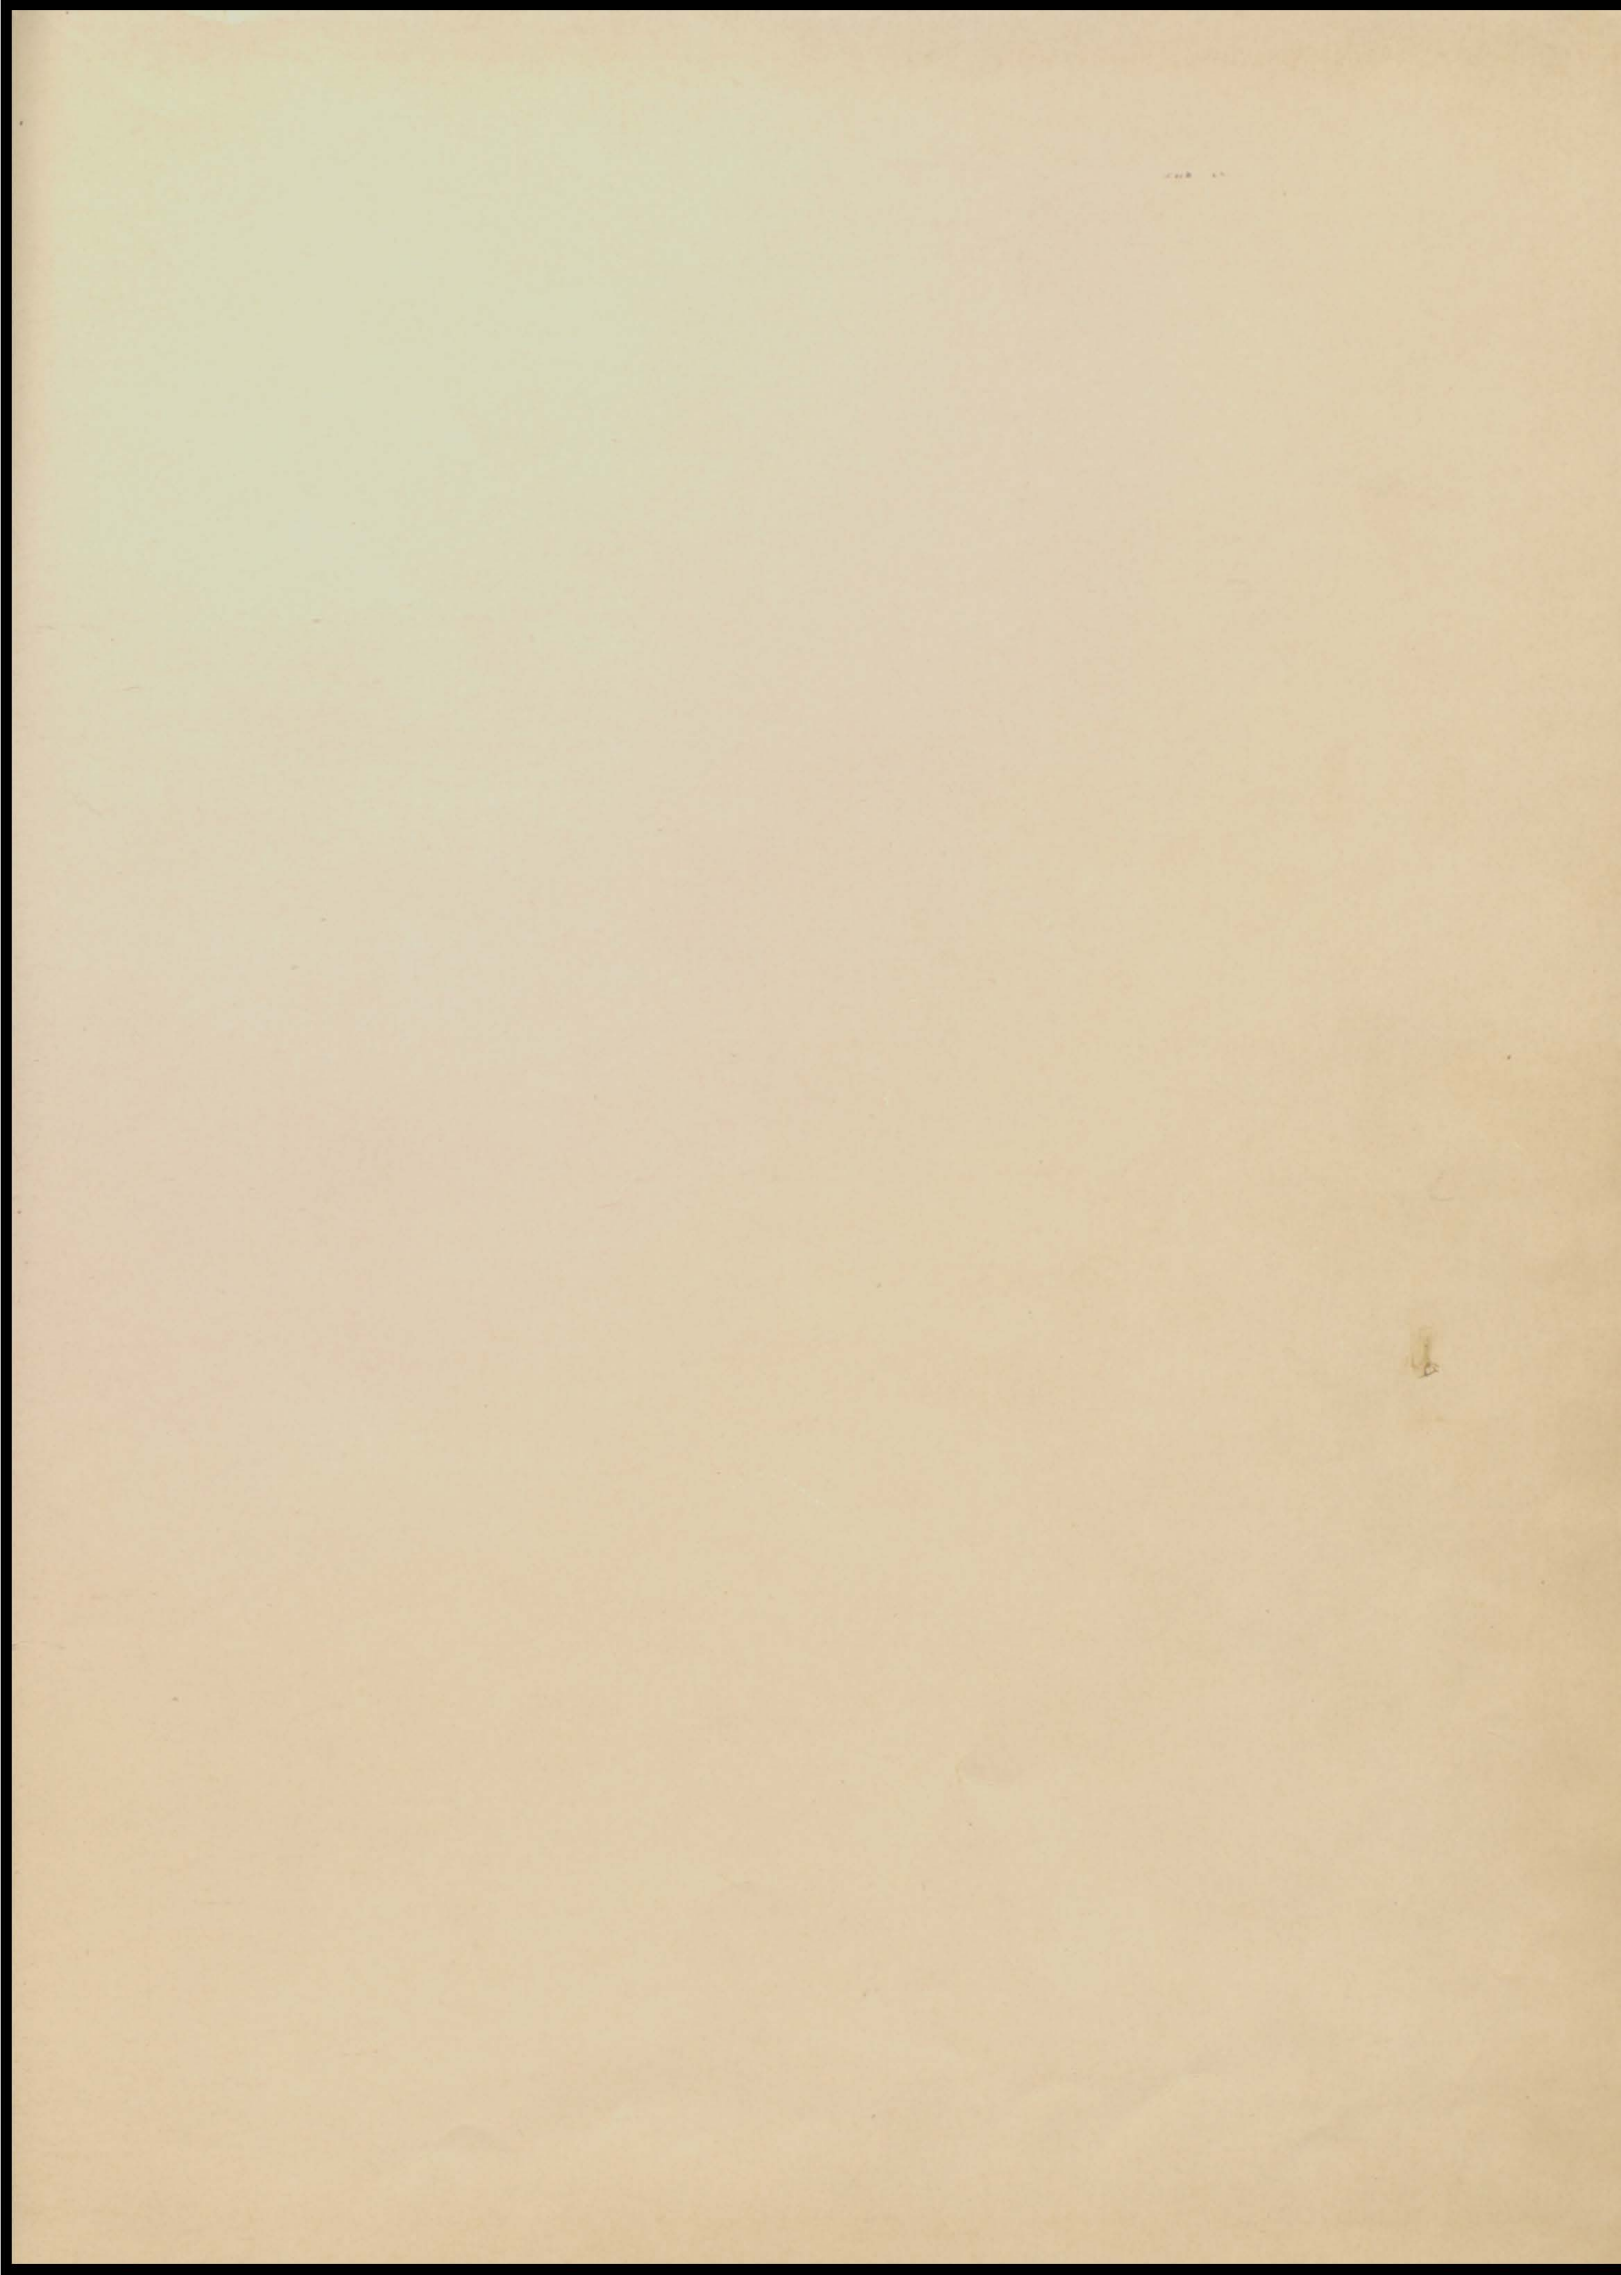

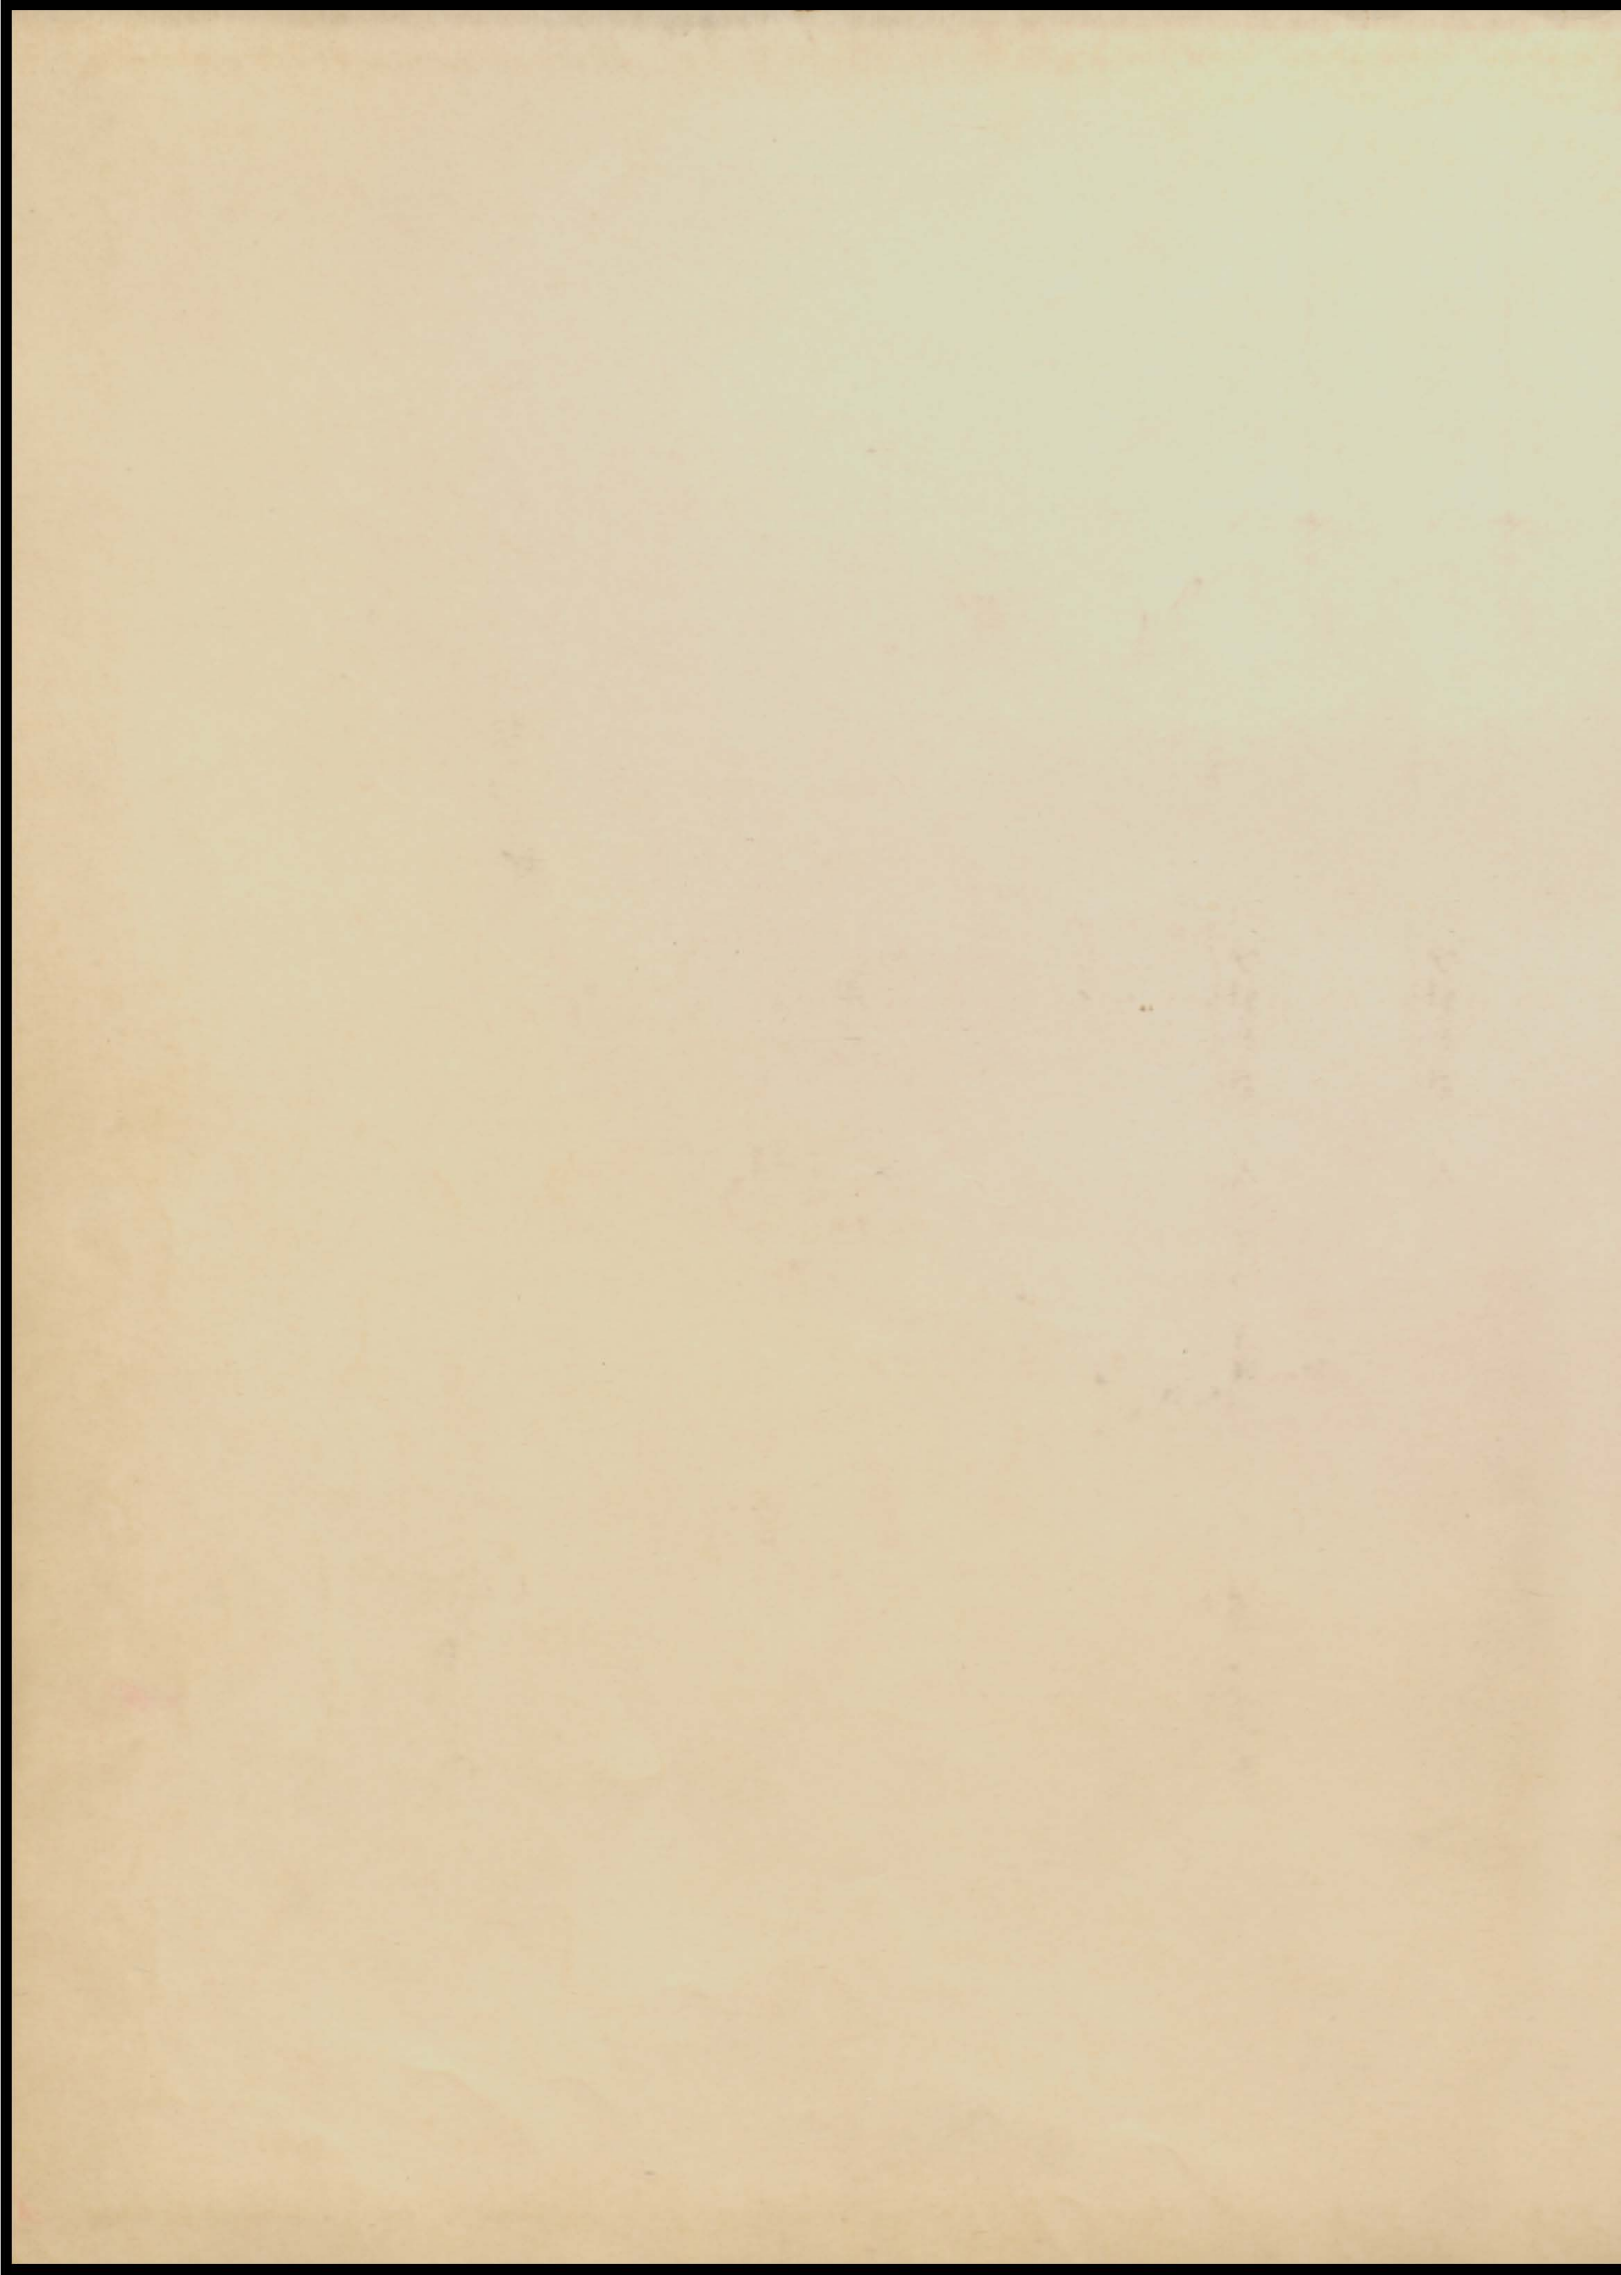

JANUARY
1937

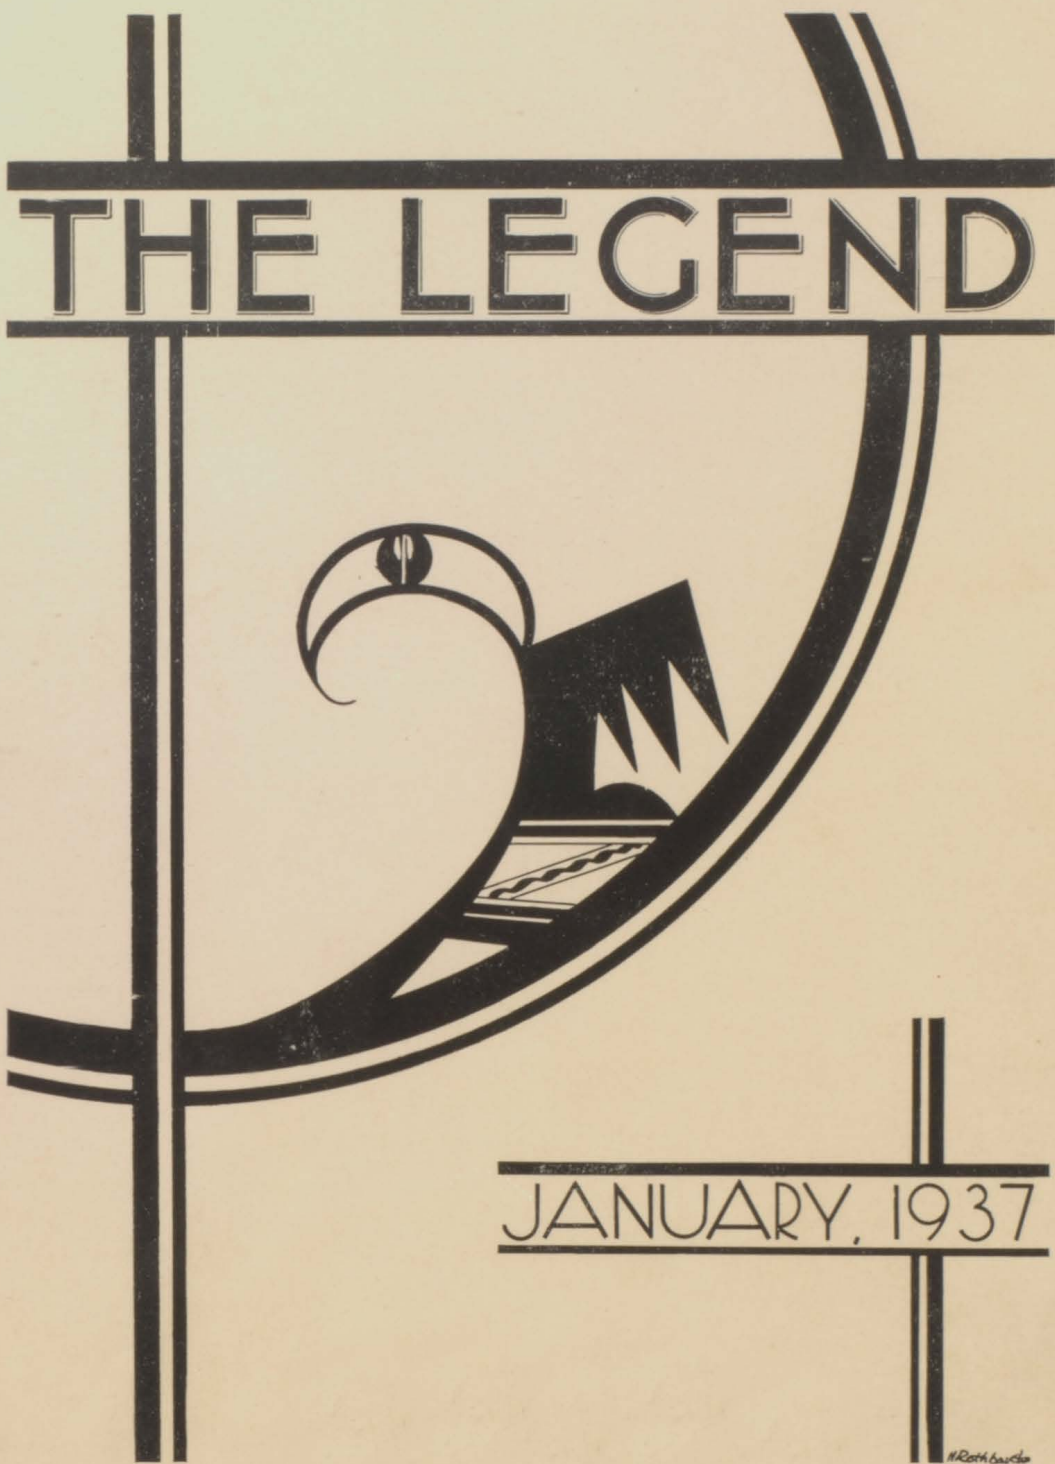

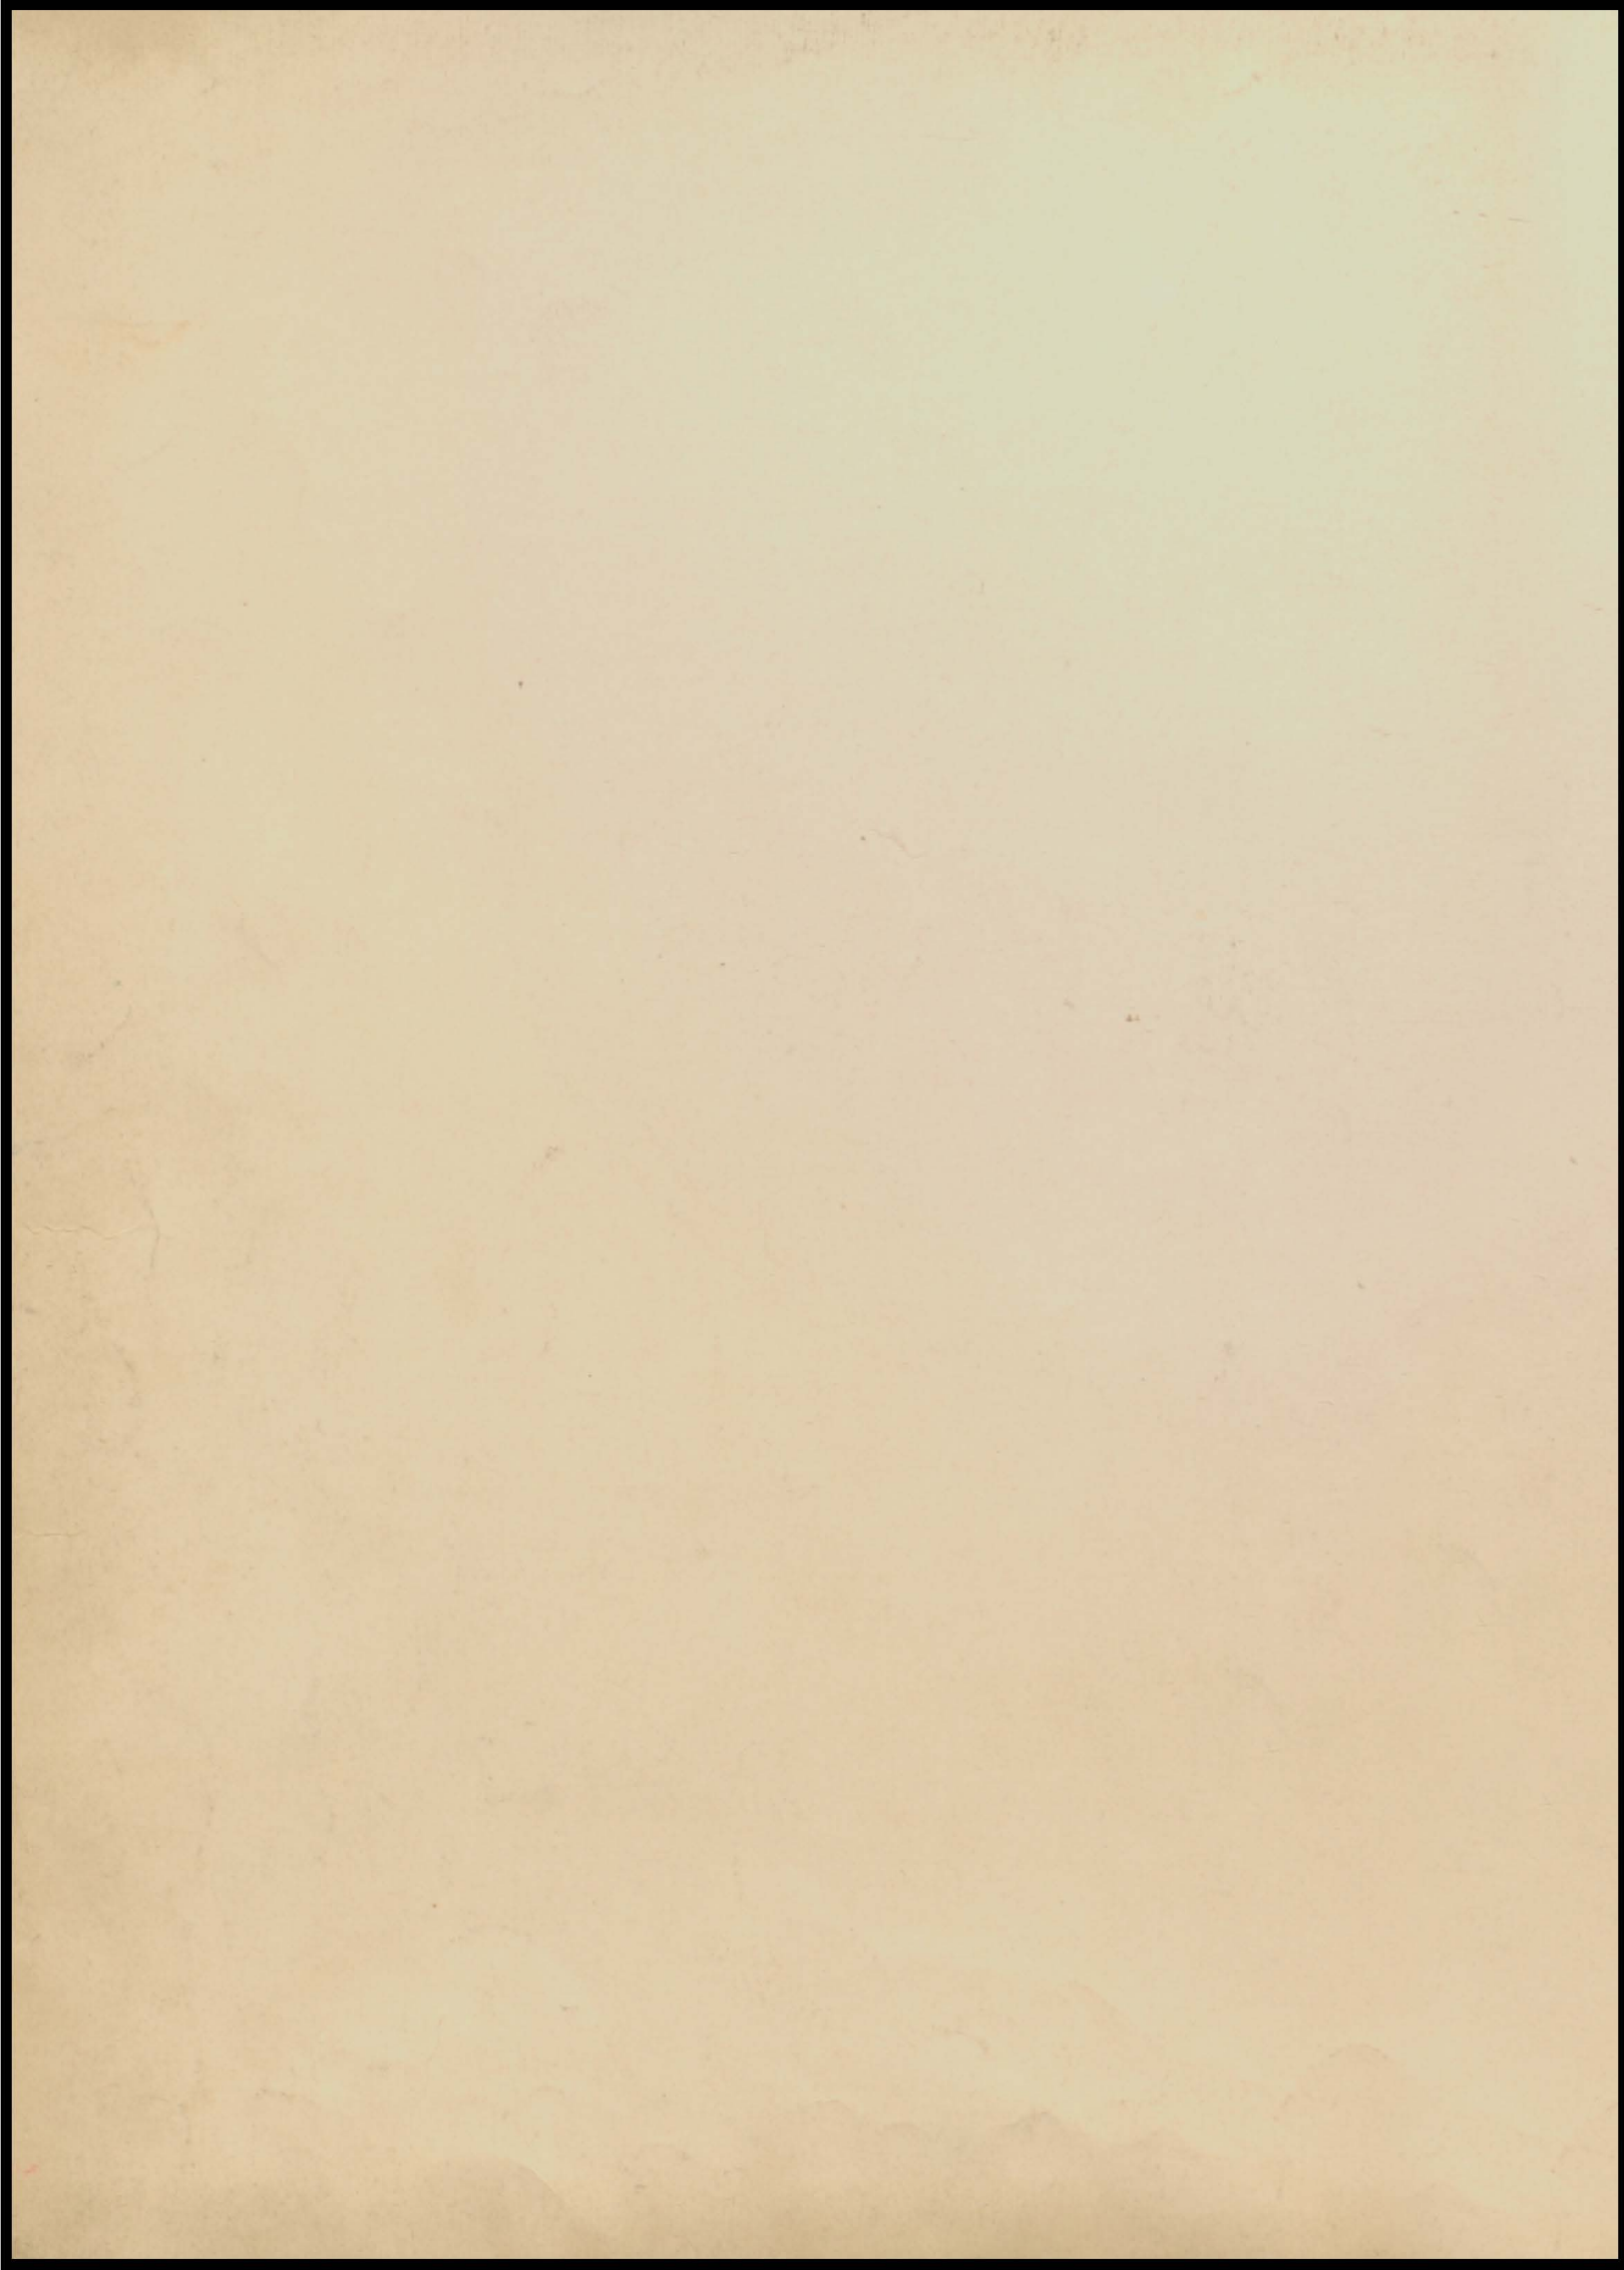

JANUARY, 1937

H. Roth, New York

WEEQUAHIC
HIGH SCHOOL
MCMXXXII

WE REJOICE IN YOUR SUCCESS ALREADY AT-TAINED AND WISH FOR YOU A FUTURE IN WHICH
YOUR HIGHEST POTENTIALITIES MAY BE REALIZED.
AS YOU GO ONWARD, MAY YOU UPHOLD THE BEST TRADITIONS OF WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL

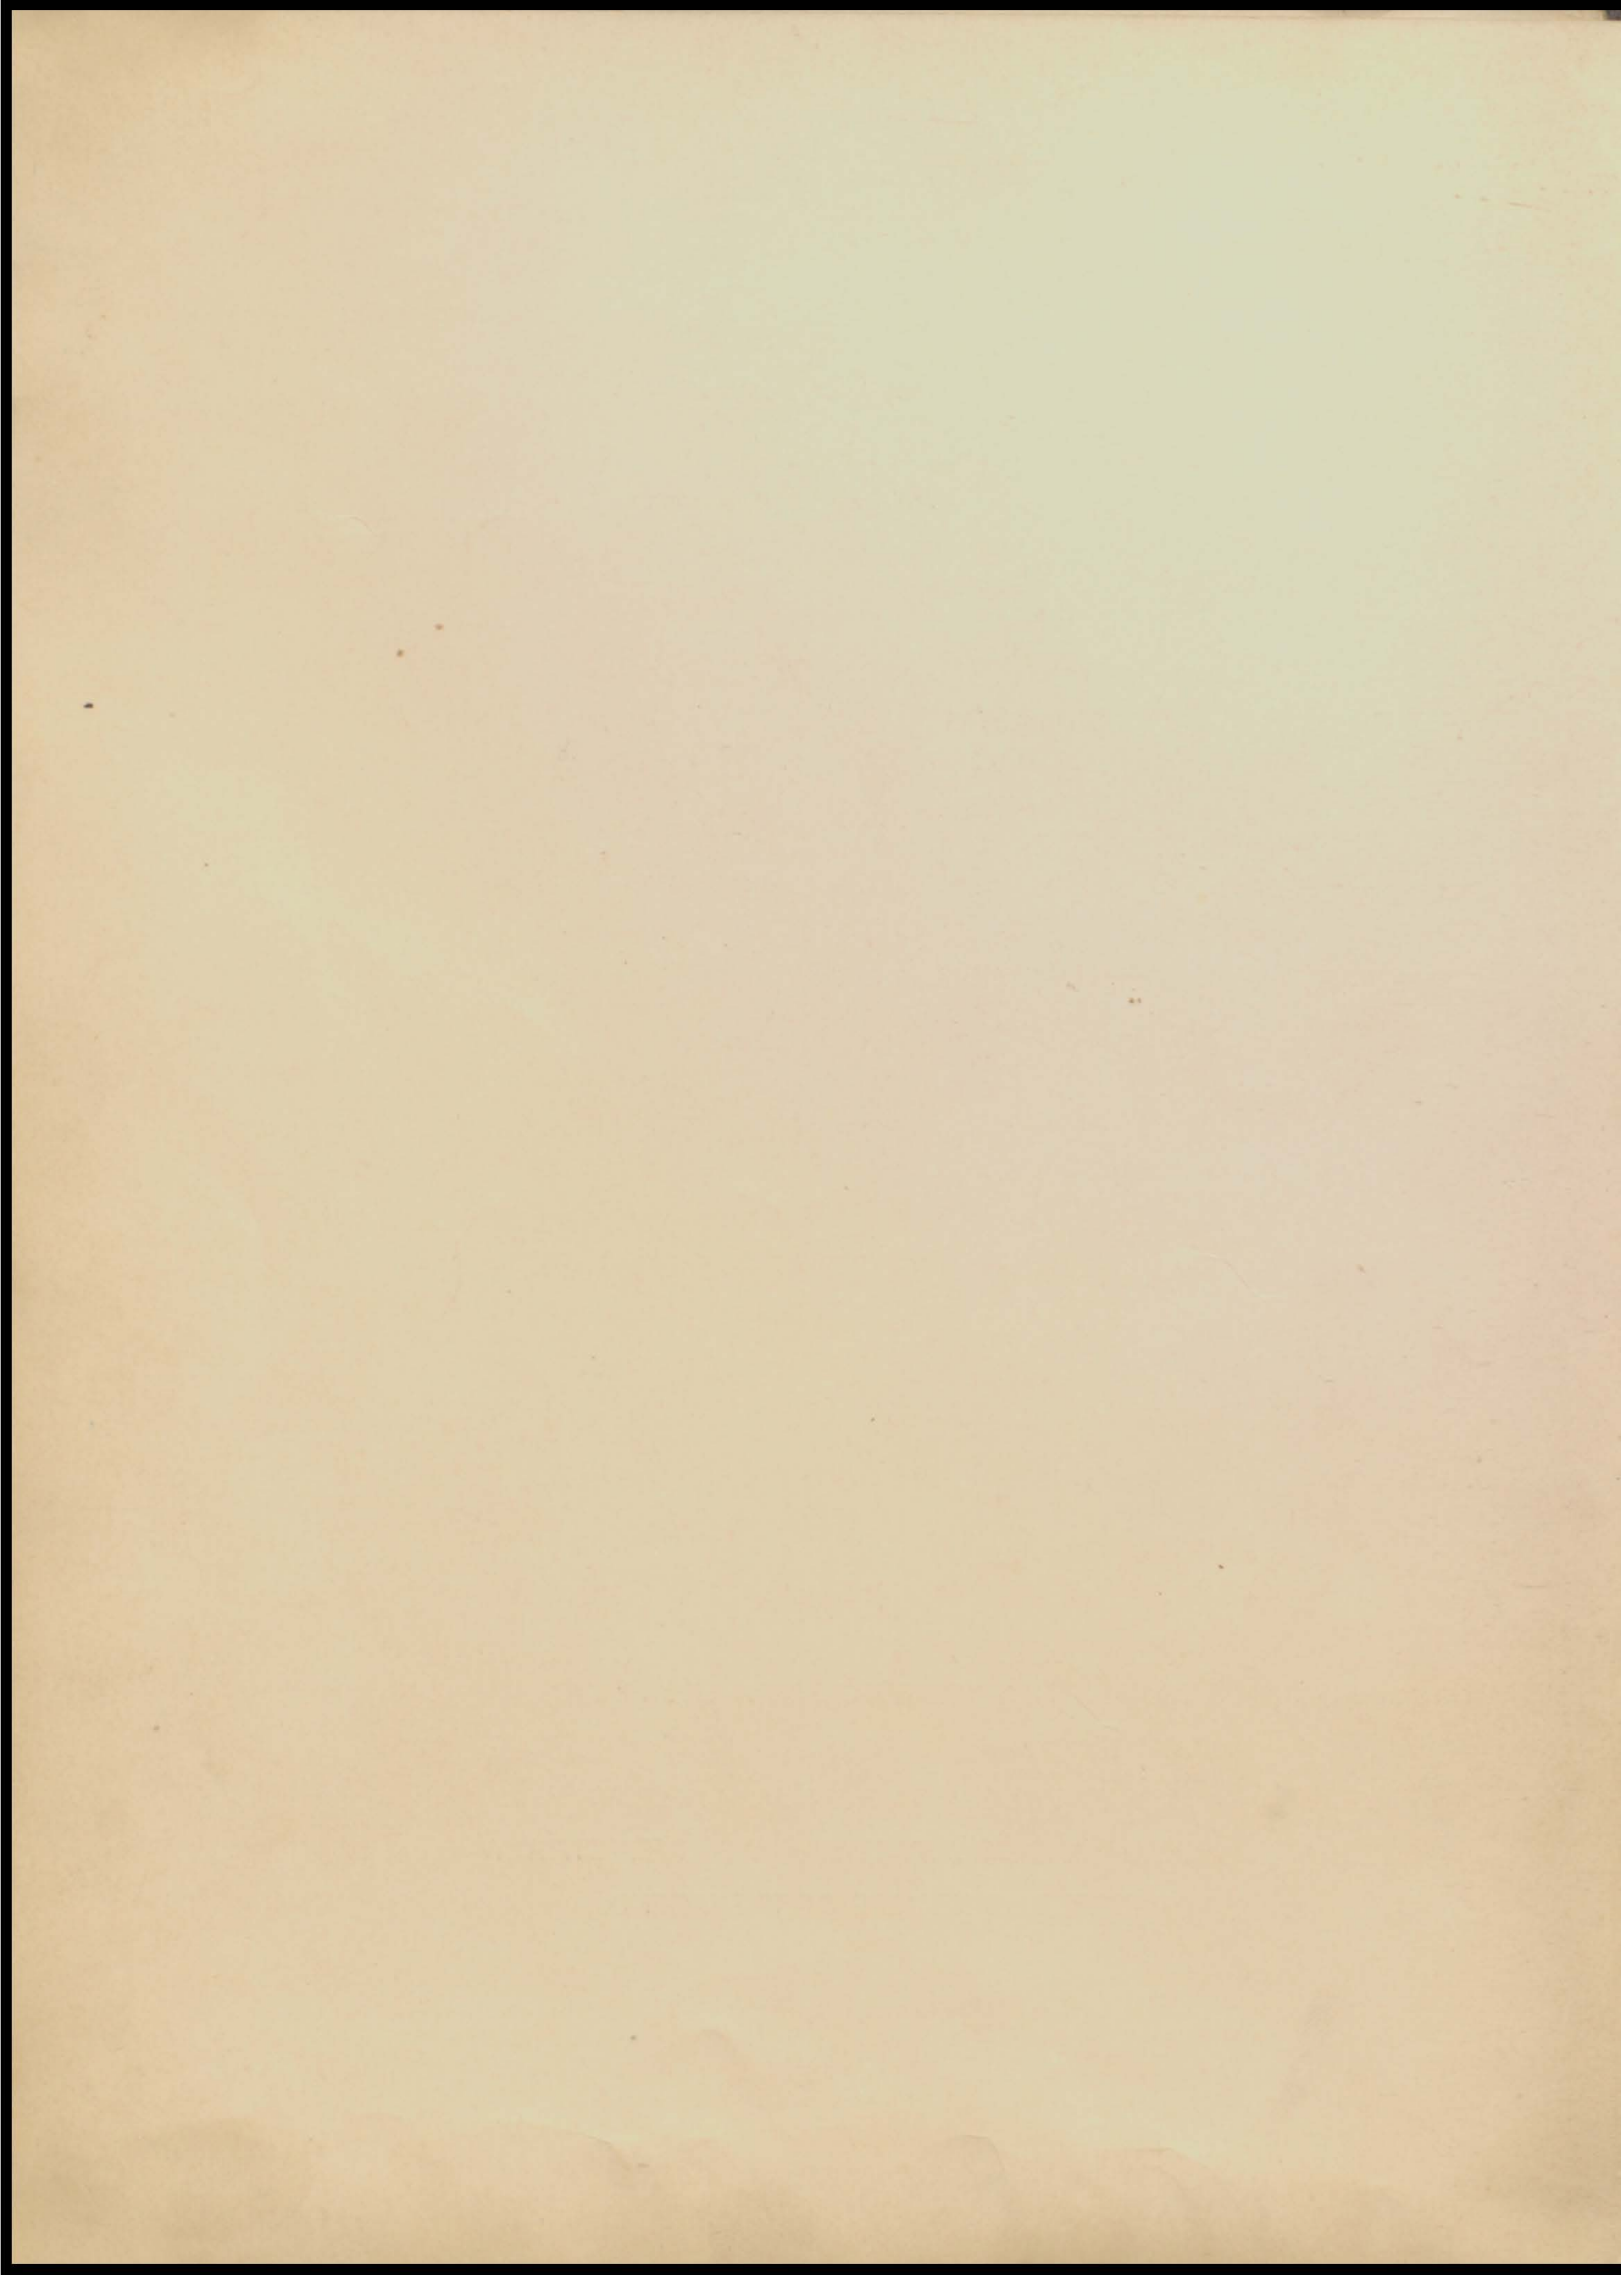

YOUR ADVISER,

LEOLA L. RUMMER

Dedication

TO MISS LEOLA L. RUMMER WHOSE FRIENDSHIP
AND TEACHING HAVE BEEN A SOURCE OF INSPIRA-TION TO THE CLASS OF JANUARY NINETEEN HUN-DRED AND THIRTY-SEVEN, WE RESPECTFULLY
DEDICATE THIS VOLUME OF THE LEGEND.

FOREWORD

BEAUTIFUL, CHASTE WEEQUAHIC, WITH YOUR PILASTERED DOORWAY, WE SALUTE YOU! FAMILIAR CLASSROOMS, BRIGHT, FAMILIAR FACES, GENUINE AND LASTING FRIENDSHIPS, ALL THESE WE SALUTE, AND TO ALL THESE, FARE THEE WELL! WEEQUAHIC, YOU HAVE BEEN A HAPPY INTERLUDE, AN INSPIRATION, A LANDMARK TO GUIDE US TOWARD TOMORROW'S DESTINY. INSIDE THESE COVERS WE HAVE CAPTURED VISIONS, SOUVENIRS, IMPRESSIONS TO REMIND US THAT YOU WILL ALWAYS BE A LIVING PART OF OUR LEGEND, ONLY THE FIRST CHAPTER OF WHICH HAS BEEN WRITTEN. WE GO HENCE TO ERECT OUR OWN LANDMARKS TO THE HONOR AND GLORY OF OUR SCHOOL, THUS TO COMPLETE THE LEGEND. OUR PRINCIPAL AND OUR TEACHERS, ALL THOSE WHO HAVE SO GALLANTLY HELPED US TO WRITE AND TO LIVE OUR FIRST CHAPTER, WE SALUTE YOU, AND SAY, FARE THEE WELL! TO THOSE WE LEAVE BEHIND WE BEQUEATH A RICH HERITAGE. HERE IS THE TORCH, HOLD IT HIGH AND FOLLOW OUR LEAD.

WE ARE GOING NOW. WEEQUAHIC, WITH YOUR PILASTERED DOORWAY, FARE THEE WELL!

JAMES CALDWELL-HEYL.

Message to the Class of January 1937

GRADUATION, as no doubt you learned in your English classes, comes from a Latin word that means "step." You are taking a momentous step this January—a step forward, we all hope. As you leave the halls of Weequahic High School, carry one thought with you: your education should continue, whether your schooling does or not. To stop learning is to stop growing. Pick out some good intellectual hobby—say archaeology or astronomical mathematics or the higher reaches of contract bridge—and make a life study of the subject. And if any of you gets to be a millionaire, remember that Weequahic's Scholarship Fund can use $50,000 or even $100.

Excerpts from Salutatory Address

January, 1937

TONIGHT is a crisis—The crossroad of our lives. It is altogether fitting that you, our parents, should be here to witness this final attainment—Our Graduation. Your ideals have been brought to fruition on this night. We, the graduates, stand before you as a living proof of your handiwork.

The task now remains for us to use the knowledge we have gained in the right direction—for nowhere in this world can we keep the Torch of Knowledge aloft than in these United States. The rupture in Europe has resulted in a backward trend. Education, Art, and Literature are being crushed under severe censorship—'till youth has become merely a puppet in the hands of the ruling minority.

The young people of America are blessed in this respect. The boundless opportunities, and wealth of knowledge, are scattered about, only waiting to be recognized and used to the best advantage.

It is with your love and faith in our ability that we are now going out—to strive, to seek, and we hope to find success and happiness in the world.

Commencement Speaker

HON. MEYER C. ELLENSTEIN

Excerpts from Validictory Address

January 26, 1936.

It is with pride and animation that we have followed the commencement exercises this evening . . . A high school graduation contains a broad and deep significance . . . We know that nothing is easily accomplished in life . . . It is better to realize this now than to regret it later.

High school, though all important now will soon prove to be but a passing joy . . . The impressions and ideas that we have acquired are important in the formation of our characters . . . We are grateful to those who have made possible the fine training we have received.

And now, my fellow classmates, I should like to leave some parting thoughts with you . . . If we are to be successful we must determine to produce only the best within us at all times . . . On all occasions and in all places let us be brave and sincere . . . And let us keep in mind that the possession of wisdom and understanding is better than the possession of silver and that its value is greater than gold.

HARRIET GERBER

Senior Letter Men

SEYMOUR FELSENFELD

Sonny's record speaks for itself. For the past three years, he has performed with such individual brilliance that all the local newspapers have unfailingly named him on their all-city football selections. His aggressiveness and uncanny football skill have made him one of the most valuable men on the entire team. He also holds the present city record for the pole vault, junior division, and has been a member of the track team for three years.

ROBERT MAUTNER

Bob has developed into one of the most valuable members of the football team. Rising to his greatest heights in his senior year, Bob was elected all-city tackle and was mentioned on selections for all-county aggregations. He also has the distinction of having started every varsity contest in the three year period. Boxing, wrestling and archery completed Bob's athletic activities.

MERN SHAFMAN

Mern is the most versatile athlete in our class. Football, basketball and track occupied most of this blonde giant's time, although an attack of rheumatism incapacitated him for one year. Coming back in his last year, he earned his letter in football and basketball. A knack for any type of athletics plus an excellent physique made Mern an outstanding athlete.

IRVING KELLER

Irv is the greatest basketball player ever to wear a Weequahic uniform. In his junior year, he made the all-state team, the first Indian athlete to ever do that, and was the second highest scorer in the entire state. His uncanny basketball sense, speed and court finesse enabled our school to attain the fine basketball record it has. Always a gallant leader, he was acting captain during his junior and senior years. When not occupied throwing basketballs through the mesh, he performed for the baseball teams on first base. Only his enviable court record overshadowed his unusual talent on the diamond.

SAM SCHWARZSTEIN

Sam was one of those football fanatics that you are so constantly knocking in to. His rugged makeup made him an ideal line plunger, and his love of action enabled him to be the fine blocker that he was. Injuries slowed this fiery athlete up considerably, but he made that coveted football monogram for three years. Boxing and wrestling also attracted him.

MAX SEIGAL

A fighting heart and a love of football were to make Max the fine gridder that he was. His ability to play all positions on the line with equal skill made him a valuable man to have around. He made his letter for two years.

LARRY BRENNAN

Speed was the keynote of this boy's success, and how he could run! Track was his first love, but when Coach Lustig asked him to come out for football, he responded and earned his letter. On the cinder squad he ran the 100 yard dash. He also managed the cross country team.

AL FEIRT

"Doc" will long be remembered for his fiery tactics on the basketball court. A fine team player, his never-give-up spirit moved his fellow players on to greater efforts. On the team for three years, he captained it in his third season. Feirt performed either at forward or guard post with equal success.

Senior Letter Men

JEROME TREISTER

Jerry's fine spirit has finally won out, and after three seasons he won a letter for football. A defensive player of great ability, Treister was constantly hampered by injuries at crucial moments in his career. His refusal to be beaten made him the most respected man on the entire team; a good footballer and a swell fellow.

PHILLIP TABACK

Here is another player who refused to permit his size to handicap him. Taback earned his letter in baseball, on which he played third base, and was on both the varsity football and basketball teams. Taback's main forte was his hitting ability and his graduation will leave a large gap at the hot corner.

MILTON DRESKIN

Milt played both singles and doubles on a very successful tennis team. Transferring from another school he earned his letter in his final year.

BEN AMSTERDAM

Amsterdam's brilliant court strategy enabled him to play number one man on the tennis team. He earned one letter.

A review of all the graduating athletes would not be complete without a tribute to Cecile Curran and Sheldon Fried whose magnificent efforts as cheer leaders played an important part in the mentioned activities. To know that the school was strongly behind them was an encouraging feature to all players, but to bring that spirit out was another thing. Cecile and Sheldon did a fine job and their shoes will be hard to fill.

THOMAS GIBNEY

Gibney was the only member of our class to get his letter for gym. He was outstanding on both the parallel bars and rings. Unfortunately this sport is only a minor—a fact that did not prevent Tom from being of its chief point getters.

PHILIP KESTENBAUM

Kestenbaum was a bulwark of strength on the football team for three seasons. He started his career as a center and was shifted to tackle and guard at various times in order to bolster weak positions. He was a vicious tackler and a fine blocker. Not many yards were made through this rugged linesman's territory.

EDWARD LERNER

One hundred and twenty-five pounds packed full of dynamite, plus an equal quantity of intestinal fortitude made Eddie the outstanding athlete he was. On the gridiron his great ability and spirit spurred the team on to its greatest efforts. He did much of the passing and kicking and was the finest broken field runner on the squad.

On the baseball team he captained the team from his position as catcher. His great fielding and fiery chatter behind the plate was rewarded when he was voted the most valuable player in his senior year. During both junior and senior terms he was elected all-city catcher on all selections, and in his final season was elected the outstanding receiver in the county.

JOSEPH STONE

Class Will

WE, The Class of January 1937, of Weequahic High School, City of Newark, County of Essex, and State of New Jersey, being of sound mind, (we hope!) do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our Last Will and Testament, not to be contested under any conditions or upon any grounds.

First: To those who wish to further their education in an inspiring environment, we bequeath our Alma Mater.

Second: To a kind and generous principal, Mr. Max J. Herzberg, we leave our deep gratitude for his efforts in our behalf.

Third: To those who wish reliable guidance and able assistance in the selections of their courses, we leave our vice principal, Mr. Walter White.

Fourth: To the succeeding 4A Classes, we bequeath the hope that they may have an advisor as capable as our Miss Rummer.

Fifth: To those students who desire to reach the heights of knowledge, we leave our capable faculty.

Sixth: To the Senior B's, we leave five short months, before they, too, will be signing their last will and testament.

Seventh: To the freshmen, we leave endurance to grope from the status of freshmen to sophomores.

Eighth: To the lunchrooms we leave our headaches which originated within its portals.

Ninth: To the Mathematics Department, we leave the few problems that we were not able to solve.

Tenth: To the athletic teams, we leave the old adage, "Try, try again" and you will succeed.

Eleventh: To the halls of Weequahic High, we leave the echo of our departing footsteps.

We do hereby appoint Mr. Max J. Herzberg sole executor and trustee of this, our last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof, we hereunto set our hand and seal, this thirty-first day of January in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and thirty-seven.

Witness:

BEATRICE SHOENHAUS

Signed: Class of January 1937
Sealed in the presence of:
HILDA EISENBERG, Attorney.

Class Prophecy

WELL, folks, we certainly have some exciting news for you this week . . . but, first . . . let's take a look at the names in the news . . . James Caldwell-Heyl, illustrious writer and speaker . . . Mitzi Gurkin, our second Sarah Bernhardt . . . Philip Agisim, up and coming agriculturalist . . . J. M. Kantor, well-known poet . . . Hilda Eisenberg and Seymour Felsenfeld (!) in the field of science . . . Lillian Neibart, woman ambassador to France . . . and others . . . consult your local newspaper . . . Betty Siegal surprised us all with her splendid work for orphan asylums . . . also, our social worker, Sylvia Goldberg . . . and philanthropist . . . Francine Wigler.

It's surely a clash of wits between Milton Breitman and Sheldon Fried, lawyers for the Bill Tucker-Eddy Lerner case . . . why, they sent for Sol Tessler, famous psychologist to determine the sanity of lawyers as well as clients . . . Judge Treister summoned Helen Schechter, court interpreter to explain the case for the jury which includes . . . William Kraft, prosperous business man . . . David Gittes, accountant . . . Sylvia Perlmutter and Charles Blatt . . . as to the case, may the best man win! . . . and speaking of best men, we saw Sydney Nadler acting as best man at the Harold Fiedler-Phyllis Jayson wedding . . . yes, she was still talking . . . Coach Irv. Keller of Princeton is confident that his team can conquer the Big Three . . . on the other hand, Mern Shafman, coach of Dartmouth, assures us of their superiority . . . we see that Margaret Notte has attained success in the field of athletics.

Famous or prominent people at the State Teacher's Convention . . . Harriet Gerber, dean of N. J. C., Chairman . . . also Lorraine Rich . . . Beatrice Schoenhaus . . . and others . . . Marion Harth, reporter, rushed in to give details on the Benefit Performance . . . included are Milton Diamond, still acting as master of ceremonies . . . Leo "Honey" Gubkin and orchestra . . . Alex Miller, famous radio crooner . . . Sheldon Rosenthal, stage comedian . . . Blanche Levey, cinema star . . . Melvin Michaels, eminent pianist . . . and more to be announced . . . In the audience . . . she bumped into Ruth Rosenberg and Hannah Turk with their husbands . . . hostesses included Marjorie Levine . . . Sylvia Laventhal . . . Frances Rosen . . . who helped everyone to feel at home . . . the affair was a huge success . . . and thanks to the generosity of the millionaire, J. Ingraham Stone . . . many needy families were helped . . . a good time was had by all . . . and so to bed . . . with loads of dreams . . . for the future.

Now It Can Be Told

HOWARD SIEGEL has been seeing large blue eyes in his dreams. Can it be love? . . .

Speaking of Siegels (no relation to Howie) Betty seems to be getting along fine, eh! Sonny? . . . By the way, Phillie, (grocery man) Agisim has fallen hook line and sinker, for a certain blond. Opinion: small but very cute . . . The cheering squad will lose one of its best members in Cecile Curran; now what can the football team fight for? . . . Alex Miller, voted the quietest boy in the class, has suddenly become a Weequahic tenor (He was swell in Pinafore) . . . Mitzi Gurkin has finally learned to snap her fingers. She's been trying since the dice-shooting scene in "Good News." That's a good example of try, try, again . . . Better not turn your back, Bernice, it seems Artie Walters can't be trusted. So we've found out—we might be wrong, No? . . . Murray Greenwald, you bashful hero, why didn't you tell us you could sing?? . . . The loud voices heard in the back of the auditorium whenever there is a football rally are only Stupelman and his gang. Don't be afraid; they're harmless . . . Why the sudden interest in learning German, Thelma? It hasn't been due to those numerous letters coming from the University of Michigan?? . . . The aristocratic Chiselers, one of the elite Co-ed clubs of Newark, contains such members as Hannah Turk, Sylvia Wasserman, and Thelma Birn. Good luck, Chiselers! There will be a two line intermission in which we will give three cheers to Miss Rummer; she has worked very hard and don't think we aren't appreciative. A bouquet of "gardenias" to you and the other 4A teachers, from us . . . On the subject of teachers, we must mention that Miss Zimmerman has been made an honorary member of our advertising staff. It was through her efforts that the P. T. A., gave us a half page advertisement . . . Incidentally, Mern Shafman has been taking up the art of painting. Judging from the way he's been painting the girls black and blue, it is evident that he will be a success . . . Speaking of football players, will someone tell Jerry (Varsity Timber) Treister and Bob Mautner that they've started a dancing school on Broad Street and its darn cheap too!! . . . What do these South Side gals have over our big handsome Weequahic graduates? Sydney Nadler's, Irving Kowaloff's and Joseph Greenberg's hearts are certainly down in "thet thar" school. Rise Weequahic girls, protect your home products! . . . Don't worry Harold, we haven't forgotten about you and Phyllis Jayson . . . We've been trying to get something on Frances Rosen, but so far we haven't had any luck. Either she has true girl friends, or she doesn't tell secrets to them. Anyway they're mum on personal subjects. No reference to you, Marjorie! . . . We've found out why the first period patrol has been so inefficient. Herbert Alpert has his eyes on a redhead instead of his patrol . . . The Stanley Yeskel-Sylvia Perlmutter and Ruth Birn-Morris Rosenbaum affairs are still going strong. Perhaps, who knows, we may have a Mrs. yet! . . . Flash, flash, we'll be back with a flash . . .

What Would Happen If . . .

1. James Caldwell-Heyl were seen trucking.
2. Helen Goldberg were seen angry.
3. Milton Diamond were without a swarm of women.
4. Sheldon Fried weren't heard singing.
5. Hannah Turk weren't trying to assert herself.
6. Philip Agisim had someone that disliked him. (Let's all be like him.)
7. Lillian Neibart weren't liked by a teacher.
8. Frances Rosen and Margie Levine didn't argue. (True love never runs smooth.)
9. Rhoda Bader didn't look bored.
10. Howard Seigel didn't wear blue sweaters to knock one's eyes out.
11. Joe Stone lost his personality.
12. Philip Pedinoff stopped looking as if he were goodness knows where.
13. William Tucker were prepared in Miss Zimmerman's class.
14. Sam Schwartzstein became friendly, and came down to earth.
15. Helen Harris didn't let her emotions run away with her.
16. Myra Teicher's genius were overlooked.
17. Sylvia Lauer stopped dancing.
18. Harold Rothbard did his Chemistry experiments.
19. Seymour Felsenfeld weren't "moody."
20. Sol Stempler lost his unforgettable smile.
21. Arthur Walters got an inferiority complex.
22. Harriet Gerber were seen doing something wrong.
23. Hilda Eisenberg came to school unprepared.
24. Sheldon Rosenthal and Miss Stevenson were friends.
25. Leo Drucker shrank and Elliot Smith grew.
26. Sara Gecht weren't so conscientious.

Attaining a Goal

ALL of us are familiar with that bleak feeling of despair and discontent, when everything seems futile. A melancholy settles over us making us feel weary with the whole world. It all appears so useless and we are filled with contempt and bitterness.

Then, to go to the other extreme, the disillusionment vanishes and hopes and ideas take its place. That same world which seemed barren, is filled with possibilities waiting for us to see them. A sudden determination to grasp life's opportunities seizes us. Inspired with this new courage, our manner changes, our eyes sparkle, our step quickens and we all resolve to start anew. With the unyielding strength of youth, we voice our firm intention of leading a better life.

But, alas, many of our fiery resolutions fade with the passage of Time. The tomorrow, for which we waited grows farther and farther away. If only our accomplishments were as worthy as our intentions! Gradually we fall back into that first state of despondency and despair.

"Well," many of us may say, "there is nothing we can do about it; that is human nature." Indeed it is not human nature, but it is nonsense. Human nature is what we make it. Suppose, in one of our inspirational moods, we actually put our hands and minds to work, instead of idly contemplating what should be done. Write down these constructive ideas as they occur, and put them where they may easily be referred to. This is the time to do all the things we have been meaning to do. Soon, we may find that our strength and determination increase while the melancholy attitude changes and the despairing moments grow fewer and fewer.

When we are busy carrying out our resolutions, we simply have no time to indulge in "blues." By training ourselves to make practical use of these moments, when the world seems full of hope and opportunity, we eliminate the less desirable feeling. Thus we prepare ourselves, while still at the bottom of the ladder, to meet Life's difficulties with determination and wisdom and to climb to the top for the attainment of our goal.

Beethoven

A gleaming sword of gold . . .
The sky deepened
until it was purple.
Somehow, you got lost
when you looked at it,
all purple and gold.
And I heard a little voice
amongst the golden clouds
crying bitterly.
I looked around in astonishment.
There was my heart
bewildered 'midst
the glory
of purple and gold;
there was my heart
wet with tears.

Pursued by Night

Half-jokingly,
he began to run;
a mere trot—
until he perceived that the night was in earnest.
The trees shook with scornful laughter;
the wind howled
in mockery.
Weird shapes,
a fantasy of thoughts,
the voices of the dark
all pursued him.
Its sinister element
grew on him . . .
The night roared,
trees shrieked,
the wind bellowed.
He entered the stillness
of an empty house.

Meditations On Scholarship

MOST persons think of scholarship as utilitarian; the yardstick of success. On referring to Roget's Thesaurus, the following synonyms for scholarship are given: knowledge, acquaintance, experience, insight, familiarity, appreciation, et cetera. The distillate of all these is understanding; nowhere does "success" appear as a synonym for scholarship or learning. Certainly no one would exclude a thorough preparation for one's life work, but by the same token, neither would one exclude a broad understanding of a great many other elements which combine with this preparation to form the compound which we call scholarship, or, understanding.

The question then arises, what is scholarship, and how does one acquire it? The first step is to learn to read. Relatively few persons ever learn how to read. To be sure, they run over the printed page, ignoring unfamiliar words, but that is not reading, which probably accounts for the prevailing distaste for history by a great many students. But to actually read, to form images of one's own, to absorb the text, to intercept the author's trend of mind and make it a part of one's own thought pattern, then to have knowledge of, and facility with the great literatures of the world, this is reading. It is indeed the very foundation for scholarship, for as someone has said, there is nothing one may not learn who knows how to read. Reading opens the great treasure house of the ages to knowledge, insight, and appreciation of all arts, sciences, crafts and other activities of man from the dawn of civilization to the present.

The complement to literature is music. It has an eloquence and imagery all its own; it cultivates and refines the human emotions so necessary to understanding. It supplements and runs parallel with the finest in literature, converting mythology into opera, enhancing its appeal. Great symphonies are historical musical epics. Scarcely a single great composition but has back of it a rich tapestry of human behavior and emotion. Painting and sculpture, architecture and the theatre, the graphic arts and a thousand and one other arts and crafts all contribute to man's knowledge and spiritual growth. These are only a few of the requisites of scholarship. The steam engine, a bridge, a winding roadway, a waving field of corn, a great ocean liner, a carefully tended garden, these and many others, when properly understood offer their valuable contributions. By such comprehension are one's frontiers extended beyond the cramped confines of what one does for a livelihood.

There is no longer a place in the world of business, the professions or industry for one who is not oriented sufficiently to be able to converse intelligently and entertainingly about a great variety of subjects. Of what material shall this conversation consist? Men no longer talk shop over the luncheon table, or in their living rooms. Their physicians and a rapidly changing social consciousness have taken care of that. Our country is learning to think homogeneously. It is alert, politically and otherwise. If one is to be an integral part of our busy world, he must be able to bring to bear a fund of knowledge outside occupational topics or find himself a lopsided misfit.

Laughter

HAVE you ever noticed how characteristic laughs are? It is very true that people are marked by their laughter. The short man twinkles, the tall man doubles up, the thin man expands and the fat man—was once the thin man.

Without laughter how sadly somber, how sorry and sickly we would be. The world would shrivel up and wither away in a sour indigestible mass.

Undoubtedly then, laughter assumes its proper place with science and medicine. It is an indestructible force. Yet, its power has not been harnessed. If we could only incorporate laughter into our language! What a happy world we would have! How easy it would be to say yes or no by means of a laugh. Other short common words of significance could likewise be expressed through laughter. As the feeling for our new laugh language grows, we might even find ourselves engaged in heated arguments with pleasant, graceful laughs.

The phraseology of time-worn thoughts would change radically. Thoughts themselves would change. Thus, instead of "crying himself to sleep" in time of mental stress, a person would laugh himself to sleep. With the sting of life's bitterness removed by the laugh, the strife of nations could be drawn to a laughing close. International good feeling would be established and race hatreds abolished.

The world at last would become one large, happy family. What rejoicing that would mean for mankind! What prosperity! What joy! What utop——

A new era is beginning. A banker is a renowned physicist; a physician a painter; a merchant a musician; and a Dr. Eckstein, professor of physiology in the University of Cincinnati, writes a book about the great scientist Nogouchi who gave his life fighting tropical diseases, a monograph on the community life of canary birds and keeps a grand piano in his laboratory. The tendency is away from narrow specialization. Scholarship, then, in addition to excellence in one's occupation, is acquaintanceship with the vast fields of learning, well-developed emotional responses, a keen sense of the humanities, individuality, self-reliance, thoroughness, tolerance, a sense of responsibility and cooperation with one's fellows. In short, scholarship is an A rating in the art of living.

The Crimson Rain

Big drums booming and the bugles blare,
Eyes shine brightly, hearts free from care.
Bright flags follow, red, white, and blue,
Soldiers marching till our hearts thrill through.
The rain pours heedlessly down.

Soldiers tramping have a hollow sound,
As the rain pours heedlessly down.
Soldiers hearts give a sudden pound
With a vision of rain pouring down.

Soldiers trudging for a distant glory,
Men returning wounded and gory.
Still the rain pours heedlessly, mercilessly, needlessly down,
For the rain knows it's murder.
It stains the flag with blood
Blood of valiant soldiers
Blood of shrinking soldiers
Parades soaked in blood

Ambition

A steady fight, an upward climb,
That leaves no time for rest.
The thought that's with you all the time,
And keeps you at your best.

A steady yearning toward a spot
That seems so far away.
And when you're there, success begot,
Your thoughts will once more stray.

And turn again to further heights,
As says our old tradition
That toward the goal we make our flights,
And that we call Ambition.

By MARTIN KANTOR

The Whirligig of Thought

I THINK of the Falling snow. It is of velvety beauty. The whirling flakes seem unreal, fairylike, —and I am a small boy dancing naked in their glow.

I think of the massivity and the nobleness of great trees. Their verdant beauty reaches up to God, —and I am a chattering monkey swinging in the branches.

I think of the rolling meadows, the green pasture slopes. I think of the far flying clouds in the blue sky, —and I am a shepherd playing my flute in the wind.

I think of the mountains in their rugged glory; the wind-swept heights, the snow filled hollows in precious colors, —and I am at last a trickling stream in the wrinkled skin of the earth.

A Word of Appreciation

The members of the Legend staff, February, 1937, wish to thank the following persons for their generous co-operation, great interest, and valuable assistance in making our Year Book a successful reality:

Miss Margaret McCullen, adviser, whose supervision was invaluable.

Miss Marie J. Reilly, Literary adviser, who generously read and advised the students on all literary material.

Mrs. Leila F. Payton, Art adviser, who supervised the art and photographic work.

The Class advisers, Miss Leola L. Rummer, 113; Miss Anna M. Dooley, 103; Miss Sarah M. Wood, 102; Miss Sylvia Ruffkess, 233; Miss Eleanor Dooley, 121; and Mr. Elmer W. Triess, 109; who have been most considerate of the needs of the members of the class.

Mr. J. Pierre Lassans of the Colyer Printing Co., whose technical advice was a great aid to the members of the staff.

The Crescent Studio to whom we owe the excellence of our photography.

The advertisers, whose cooperation has made this book a possibility.

We hope our

. . . FINE QUALITY PRINTING IS nowhere so essential as in school and college annuals. The story told by copy is worthless unless the printed pages provide eloquent testimony of its truthful reproduction of campus life.

Production of distinctive printing depends upon the masterful handling of such technicalities as layout, artwork, make-ready, and presswork, and also upon the selection of proper ink, paper and binding. Consistently, good printing has made the Colyer Organization the choice of leading schools and colleges.
